To Whom It May Concern:

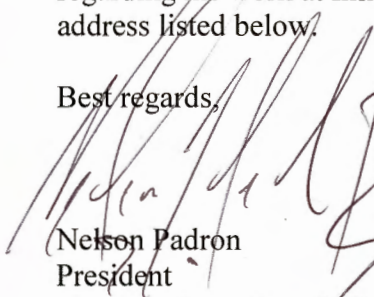

I am writing this recommendation on behalf of Kevin Cassell, who has worked with our organization since September of 2007. During his tenure, he taught professional and general English to a wide range of students, all of whom are non-native speakers. His classes included Levels 2, 3, and 4 in our General Professional Program and Levels 3A and 3B in our Accelerated Professional Program. In addition, he taught specialized courses, or "modules," including Business Writing and Meetings, and worked with students online through the Inlingua Online Learning (iOL) tool.

At Inlingua, Kevin distinguished himself as a responsible and hard working professional, cooperative with clients, teachers, and administrative staff. From the outset he became known as a popular and effective teacher, bringing an element of drama into the classroom that proved to be of great value. His style was engaging of students even in our corporate classes, which in Kevin's case included employees of Oracle, Ernst & Young, and Baxter Americas Services.

I would also like to mention that he has exceptional proofreading and editing skills, which were put to use during his time with us. He impressed us as a thorough, detailed-oriented reader and a strong writer.

I recommend Kevin with confidence. Should you like further information regarding his work at Inlingua, please feel free to contact me at the Costa Rica address listed below.

Best regards,
